Creamed Dill Potatoes Are Delectable

While tradition in the Carter household calls for fresh peas, dill is a delicious option

Column and photos by Ali Carter, Wisconsin Potato Growers Auxiliary

We have a tradition here in the Carter household. Each spring, we enjoy a meal of creamed new potatoes with fresh peas straight from the garden.

While that tradition will not be replaced, I find this dilled version just as delicious and know it will go on the rotation!

DIRECTIONS

Using a large pot with enough water to cover your potatoes, boil them until they're soft.

Drain the water from the potatoes, place them back on the heat for 2 to 3 minutes to remove additional moisture, and then set aside.

To prepare the creamy dill sauce, place a medium-sized saucepan over medium-low heat. Add and melt the butter.

INGREDIENTS:

Creamed Potatoes with Dill

- 1 1/2 pounds small potatoes, rinsed and peeled
- 1 Tbsp. butter
- 1 1/2 Tbsp. flour
- 2/3 cup milk
- 1 bunch fresh dill, chopped
- Salt and pepper to taste

Stir in the flour and mix until it turns into a soft paste.

Add the milk and whisk until smooth. Season with salt and pepper.

Lower the heat and simmer for around 4-5 minutes so that the creamy sauce slightly thickens.

Pour sauce over cooked potatoes, add the chopped dill, and stir to combine.

Creamed Potatoes with Dill are best served warm.

Enjoy! BCT
